Dustin England oversees South Operations for GridHawk Utilities and supports statewide locating operations across Michigan. With more than eight years of experience in utility locating and damage prevention, coupled with five years in construction, he brings a comprehensive, field tested perspective to excavation safety.

Since the startup of Michigan operations three years ago, Dustin has played a key role in building and stabilizing the program from the ground up. His responsibilities include safety leadership, quality assurance, damage prevention, staffing strategy, and operational accountability across highvolume territories. He works closely with field leadership, utility owners, and OneCall partners to align expectations, strengthen training, and improve field execution.
