Khrysanne has been a driving force in the damage prevention industry for nearly two decades, beginning her work with CGA in 2005 and officially joining the team in 2007.

She has played a pivotal role in growing the CGA brand and building national awareness for 811, the national call-before-you-dig number. Khrysanne leads the planning and execution of the CGA Conference & Expo – our industry’s premier event – and is well known for fostering collaboration across stakeholders to strengthen our shared mission of protecting underground infrastructure.

With a background in public relations from Kent State University and a reputation for dynamic, engaging outreach, Khrysanne brings both strategic insight and passion to everything she does.
